JULY 23-AUGUST 22

I just know that you've been through the mill in one way or another, and I'm delighted to tell you that it all ends here. It might even have been going on as far back as when Uranus moved into Taurus in 2018.

You need to shine, whether that's creatively or in leadership, and it must be heartfelt, which, let's be honest, it always is with you.

You're having to face the imminent changes at the same time because of what Pluto is doing in your chart in 2026, and they're immense. Just look at how much your life has changed over the past year or so.

For some, 2026 is about scaling the highest heights of whatever you put your mind to, while for others, if you hold onto negativity, that's all you'll get back.

This is about you learning to pull yourself into a new form of thinking and being reminded in parallel that this is one of your core strengths.

You must be able to shine, because if you stay in the background, that's where you'll remain.

The cherry on top of the cake is the arrival of Jupiter in your sign in June. As a gifting planet, it will strengthen your sense of worth and bring you some type of wealth, perhaps spiritual or connected to your well-being.

Whatever your plan was in 2025, you start seeing it take shape, and come July 2026, you will feel like you can breathe again.

The love planet Venus can build your relationship, or rebuild it, in an equally strong way. But the key to this is new beginnings, and the more you stand still and look to the past, the greater the chance of missing out on this healing opportunity.

This is all about the old ways falling away and the new beginning. You were born to be the leader of the band, so stand up to be counted.

You were born to be the leader of the band, so stand up

AUGUST 23-SEPTEMBER 22

Take plans you made last year to the next level

You're rarely one to do things by halves, venture into areas that aren't completely within your grasp or take chances, yet you're having to hold your nose and jump this year.

Uranus in Gemini governs your career once more. It's in this part of your chart for roughly eight years from April, and you've already had a taste of what this planet here can do in 2025, so now it really is about you deciding to take those plans you made last year to the next level.

This could be about making a job a vocation, and this type of dedication to what you know and enjoy, makes perfect sense to you.

This could mean retirement, whereas for others, this is only the beginning. Revolution is in the air, and if ever a star sign could organise this from start to finish and still be home in time for tea, it's you. Your ruler, Mercury, goes backwards in all water signs this year, starting with Pisces in February.

It will love to throw spanners in the works in relationships, and there could be a lot of people playing the martyr, which you'll have no truck with. It's your delightfully practical side that's on display when swiftly dealing with any of this.

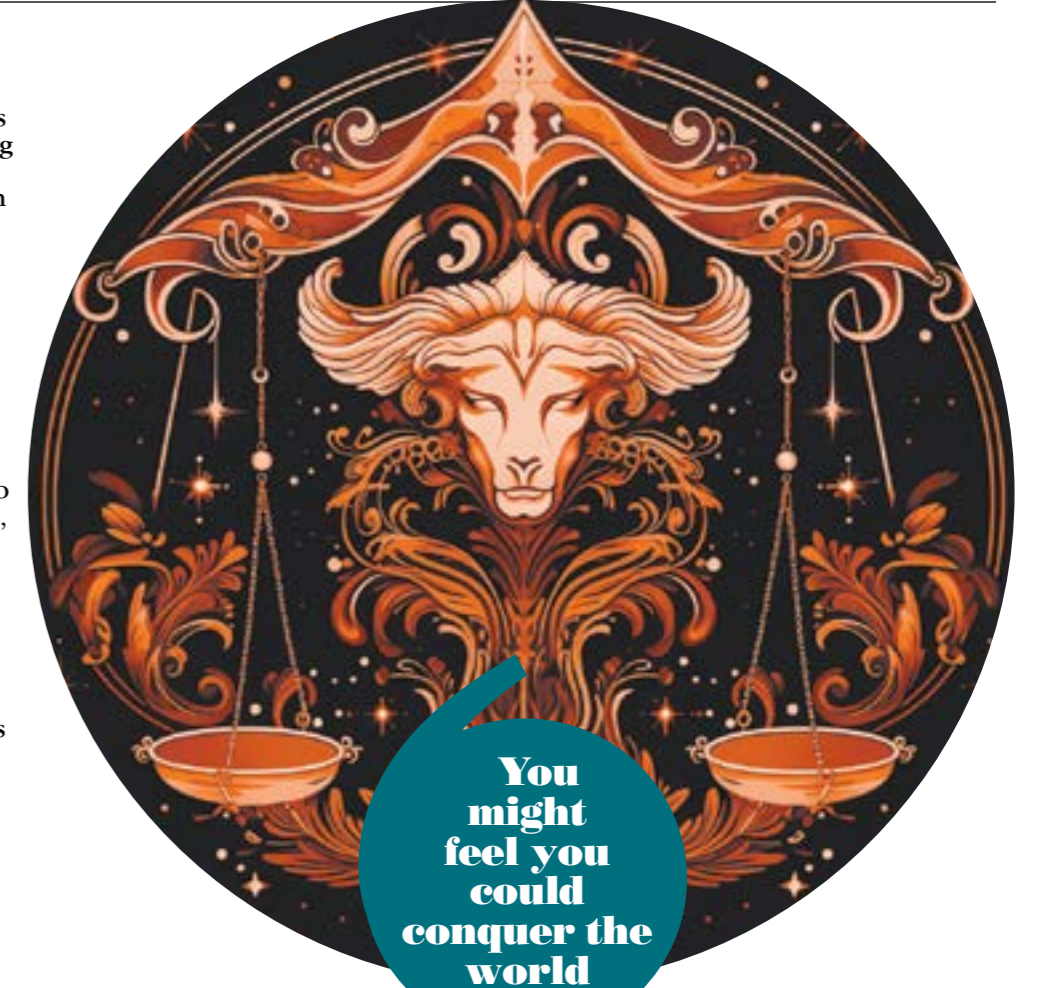

Whatever you initiate and see possible in the biggest spheres of your life, you can make it manifest.

Jupiter in Leo from June will help you put away things that have been around for too long and say goodbye to the old while embracing the new with confidence and optimism.

Jupiter enters your sign in 2027, and you'll change the very fabric of your life, from the grassroots up. So, see this year as a preparation time where you lay solid foundations that feel good to you as well as look good on paper.

Libra

SEPTEMBER 23-OCTOBER 22

You might feel you could conquer the world

You were likely at sixes and sevens last year, even over seemingly trifling decisions.

A more decisive you will emerge going forward, and once those scales balance, out comes the sword, although the pen is truly mightier, and you'll plan a better future this year.

Jupiter was busy last year helping you see your abundance and your worth in your career, even if you weren't sure of it and it's the same story in 2026. Time to manifest at least some hopes, dreams, and wishes, and see a bigger picture now that those foundations are in place.

The way the sky looked last year, no wonder you proceeded with caution, but you are through all that and will go after changes that really suit you this year. When it gets to the core, sometimes you're fearful, but please learn to ride out any such feelings.

The total eclipse in Virgo in March sets a determined tone, and I reckon it'll help you focus on your innermost needs, laying foundations for when Jupiter makes its move into Leo later in the year.

This is when you might suddenly feel you could conquer the world, and why not?

When Uranus arrives in Gemini in April, that's when your mind, your ideas and the brilliance of your star sign step out for the world to see. The revolution has begun, and Pluto is showing you the way in 2026, a job it started in 2025.

You already know that the way things were in the past is no longer valid, and this year it's only going to take you higher.

Last year didn't leave you unscathed when you saw things crumble and fall, so get behind this new beginning in the spirit of harmony, balance, love and opportunity. There's no hiding away, so shine out there in the collective.

Scorpio

OCTOBER 23-NOVEMBER 21

You're ready to take the world by storm

You're the star sign of great change. You always have been. This year is no different because you're riding life's roller coaster and enjoying the thrills and spills, as your ruler, Pluto, carves out a new life for you. Sounds dramatic, I know, but your life tends to be.

From business, work, to opportunity, this roller coaster will bring the highs and the lows of what you're looking forward to, and what you'll probably realise by the end of the year is that you've been guiding it the whole time.

That's because it's up to you where you're ultimately headed, and because you're a deep thinker, you'll focus your immense willpower on only the best outcomes for you, especially in your career. From February 17 onwards, and the eclipse in Aquarius, you're ready to take the world by storm, or that roller coaster ride takes you where you think you need to be, only for you to choose more.

Jupiter's July move is another biggie. It'll make you into a new person for a year and a half, no longer the quiet star sign – you're going to be full of action, and all those around will have little choice but to take it on board.

In April, Uranus moves into Gemini to help you focus on the long term and where you're going, as there is business to be done, and work and opportunity to seek out. Or will it find you?

Despite the revolution in the air, with all the options that could present this year, nothing will stop you, and you will prove exactly what you can do. We all know what a passionate sign you can be, and that's when feelings take over, and you throw caution to the wind.
